The issuer will rely on notifications of significant dealings to monitor and review the product, this TMD, and its distribution strategy, and to meet its own obligation to report significant dealings to ASIC.

Dealings outside this TMD may be significant because:

In each case, the distributor should have regard to:

- the actual or potential harm to a client,

- the nature and extent of the inconsistency of distribution with the TMD (including an explanation of why the dealings occurred outside the target market),
- the date range of when the significant dealing occurred,
- the number of clients impacted by the significant dealing (i.e. the number of clients who are not in the target market (or who have been excluded from the target market) as a proportion of all clients who have acquired the product), and
- the time period in which these acquisitions outside the target market occurred.

Complaints

The distributor will provide details of the number and nature of complaints relating to product design, product availability and distribution, having regard to privacy.
